Compliance Compass

There is a wide range of national and international legislation that regulates the manufacture and distribution of products and product packaging. The international range of new legal requirements is currently increasing rapidly and it is becoming more and more challenging not only to keep an eye on the relevant regulations, quotas and innovations but also to integrate them into the company's internal processes.

Do you know which regulations are relevant for your company?

Mandatory labelling on packaging, reporting and registration requirements in the individual EU countries, plastic taxes, deposit requirements or information on packaging weights – keeping track of all this is a real challenge.

Our service for you

With our Compliance Compass, we identify the relevant areas for your company and reduce complexity. In a summary report, you receive the results of the assessment, as well as an overview of the specific regulations. In a short expert discussion, we summarise the most important findings, address any queries, and jointly determine your next steps.

Your advantage

With the Compliance Compass, you can see at a glance which topics are associated with high risks for your company and need to be tackled in the near future.
